

Festival of Small Halls Announces Resilience Tour 2023: New South Wales

Festival of Small Halls has announced that Lucy Farrell and Hat Fitz and Cara will feature on their upcoming Resilience Tour 2023: New South Wales.

Presented by internationally renowned festival producers Woodfordia Inc, the thirty fourth edition of this powerful community driven not-for-profit regional music tour is taking world class artists to the regional communities of New South Wales this May and June.

The Resilience Tour 2023 will journey across the many landscapes of rural New South Wales; from sweeping cattle country to lush rainforest. Halls of all shapes and sizes will throw open their doors to locals and visitors alike. This tour is particularly special, as we will be travelling to disaster-affected areas, engaging local emergency services and groups to educate and prepare the audience, as well as foster some of the beautiful community resilience and drive as we come together to raise spirits and listen to wonderful music.

Famous for their larger-than-life folk festivals over the last two decades, Woodfordia prides itself in programming folk and acoustic musicians who embody the best of the music world, through their music, love and passion.

Previously featured on the Summer Tour 2019 with Blair Dunlop, the high-energy, foot-stomping and ground-shaking duo, Hat Fitz and Cara are no strangers to the touring circuit. The husband-and-wife team have been performing together for 14 years, winning hearts and creating tunes from their base in Queensland's Sunshine Coast hinterland, to the far reaches of the globe. This lively pair combine soaring, blues soaked guitar from Fitz, with pounding drums and soulful vocals from Cara, to create a show that will wake the souls and change the weather.

"We are rapt, chuffed and tickled to be welcomed back into your communities and to share our new songs and stories beneath the roofs of your beautiful small halls," said the pair.

Joining the tour from her base in Canada is Kent-born contemporary folk artist Lucy Farrell. A powerful soloist, Farrell brings poetic lyricism and dynamic charm to the stage. A longtime collaborator with projects such as Eliza Carthy and the Wayward Band, Gluepot, Modern Fairies and more, Farrell is stepping into a world of her own, gearing up to share her debut solo album in April 2023.

Farrell will be sharing her unconventional and sophisticated song writing with audiences across regional New South Wales. Equal parts bewitching and clarifying, her music is sure to reach into the hearts of all who bear witness.

Gearing up for her first tour of Australia, Farrell says she's "so happy and excited to have the opportunity to explore a little bit of Australia, and to share my songs with you all".

The Festival of Small Halls Resilience Tour 2023: New South Wales starts on the 18th of May at The Citadel in Murwillumbah before continuing to nine other communities across regional New South Wales. The tour concludes at Collins Creek Hall in Collins Creek on the 4th of June.
